The case-finding tools on Westlaw give you a variety of methods for finding relevant cases. One of the most efficient is KeySearch®, which is powered by the West Key Number System®. This quick reference guide shows you how to use KeySearch to quickly find on-point cases.

What Is KeySearch?

KeySearch is a search tool that identifies key numbers and terms based on the topics you select from an easy-to-use list of topics. KeySearch then runs a query created by a West attorney-editor. It retrieves documents that contain key numbers, such as cases with West headnotes, as well as documents that don’t contain key numbers, such as law review articles and cases without West headnotes.

How Do I Use KeySearch?

ACCESS KEYSEARCH

SELECT A TOPIC

At the KeySearch page (Figure 2), browse the list of topics and subtopics in the right frame by clicking the Browse icons ( ). When you see a topic or subtopic related to your issue, select it by clicking the Search icon ( ) next to it, or click the Search all of ... link at the top of the page. You can also search the list of KeySearch topics and subtopics for specific terms by typing the terms in the text box in the left frame and clicking Go. (If you use more than one term, use a connector between the terms, e.g., child /3 support).

Using the Westlaw Research Pyramid

Much of your online research will focus on case law.

KeySearch uses the West Key Number System to build queries that easily retrieve relevant cases.
SELECT A SOURCE

Once you've selected a topic or subtopic to search, the KeySearch search page is displayed (Figure 3). Choose the source you want to retrieve documents from, e.g., Cases with West Headnotes: All Federal Cases, and, if desired, type additional search terms in the Add Search terms text box. Then click Search to run the KeySearch query.

VIEW THE RESULT

The result list contains citations of documents retrieved by the KeySearch query. The search result may also include a ResultsPlus® list, which displays links to additional sources that are relevant to your search.
